

Calendar Based Content Selection - There are certain times of the year when certain things happen and people think about them. Around the end of the year, people remember the old year, look forward to the new year and may make New Year's resolutions. People must file their tax returns by April 15. Summer vacations are planned and taken. Children go back to school and high school seniors apply to college in late summer. Prior to year end, may people make estate planning and tax related decision. These seasons present opportunities to offer financial educational content and products relevant to the season.
